

help young students fill gaps

What do we need help with? We need help teaching young students things, that they missed because of the lack of a homeschooling concept in many of our elementary schools during lockdown.

Why do young students have it the hardest?

In the early years of school, they are learning the essential basics of maths, writing or even a foreign language and if they miss out on learning these, it will be disproportionately hard for them to keep up as they continue attending school.

Young students were hit the hardest in lockdown - help them catch up at volunteer.com/berlin.